Thursday 20th November MT,L

A day of mystery, where beauty grows, among fields of fragrance, a garden glows. Rows upon rows, in colours so bright, a sea of blossoms, a stunning sight. With tea in hand, we wander with ease, hearing tales of roses from far overseas. How they arrived and made their stay, thriving in sunshine, blooming away. Next, to a manor grand and true, where history lingers in every view. A feast of flavours, delicate and fine, a high tea spread, a place to unwind. Sweets and savouries, tea in a cup, a moment to remember. With hearts full of wonder, back we go, carrying memories that bloom and glow.
